BAR

Moss developed more than 400 to 450 million years ago. Today there are about 16,000 known types. Moss has no harmful effects on the environment, such as the formation of mould or the like, and is therefore very popular for the decorative design of living spaces.

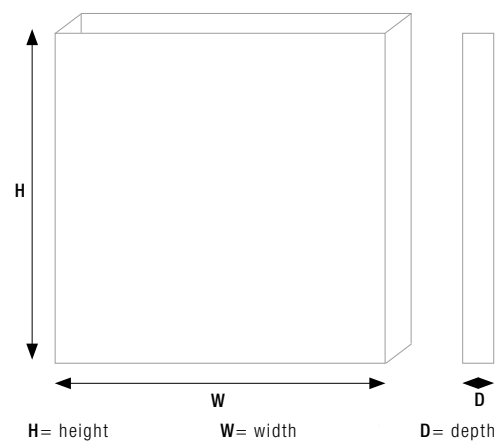

The soft structure of the hill mosses combines nature-based design (so-called "biophilic design") with improved acoustics. Consequently, art aqua moss installations are an integrative component of holistic room design.

art aqua moss products or moss images require no irrigation. They improve room acoustics and, thanks to their structure, are antistatic. In case of exposure to overly strong UV light, we recommend the use of our refreshing set.
